BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY

Charles G. Koch Foundation
Bowling Green State University
Department of Philosophy, College of Arts and Sciences

On behalf of the Department of Philosophy and the Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) Program at Bowling Green State University, we respectfully request $12,000 to support our new PPEL minor and PPEL Club for a second year. Such a grant would continue to enhance our new academic program, which promises undergraduates the opportunity not merely to integrate political philosophy, political science and political economy, but also to understand the systematic justification for the institutions characteristic of a free society, both empirical and normative. It will also help us to advance our proposed PPEL major.

Background and Mission

Founded in 1910, Bowling Green State University provides a wide range of students, particularly in Northwest Ohio, with preparation for lifelong career growth, lives of engaged citizenship and leadership in a global society, in particular with strong commitments to first-year programs that lead to success. Within our transformative learning community, we build a welcoming, safe and diverse environment where the creative ideas and achievements of all can benefit others throughout Ohio, the nation and the world.

The PPEL Minor and PPEL Club

BGSU has recently created a new academic minor in the area of philosophy, politics, economics and law. After a successful first year, a key advantage the PPEL program offers students is the opportunity to ask philosophical questions about the justification of social institutions combined with information about how institutions actually function through critical inquiry and debate amongst their peers and their faculty. One integral part of any vibrant PPEL program is an undergraduate PPEL club, led primarily by undergraduates and based around reading groups and speaker series. Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, is the Director of the PPEL program and advises the new PPEL club. The aim of the club is to expand learning about PPEL topics outside of the classroom and into the social lives of students as they explore the characteristics and nature of liberty and the well being of free societies. Students have the opportunity to become acquainted with ideas and research that our faculty cannot provide and to interact with scholars across the country and the world. As they develop knowledge and skills, we expect our PPEL minors to become BGSU's best students and to quickly enter promising post-graduate careers.

The PPEL Major

Given the successes of our PPEL minor and the desire of the university administration to promote new programming for BGSU undergraduates, we have been encouraged to create a PPEL major, which will involve considerably more resources and reach many more students. Thanks to last year's grant from the Koch Foundation, we have had a strong first year. This coming year is just as critical, as we will be moving towards a major to be offered in the fall of 2016.

Program

Following the Charles G. Koch Foundation's interests, the Philosophy Department requests support for the following activities for the fall 2015/spring 2016 academic year:

1. PPEL Reading Group and Club

In order to expand this still-new undergraduate academic club, we request $1,000 for books, food and advertising. Last year we attracted 27 students to the club's meetings. This year we will also invite graduate students and faculty to the group as well, and expect to exceed last year's numbers in regular attendance.

2. Guest Lecture Series

The PPEL Club is the only academic club of its kind at BGSU, as it has both an academic and popular audience and serves both PPEL minors and others who attend. Our guest lectures will be prominently advertised and open to the public in order to reach the broadest audience. The 2014-15 events attracted over 500 people, demonstrating the interest generated by the topics, which we hope to expand for 2015-16. Our goal is to run several high profile speaking events with 125-200 people at each lecture. A budget of $10,000 would cover travel, stipends and accommodations for two to five events with prominent speakers.

3. Promoting the PPEL Major

Progressing and promoting the PPEL program to status as a major will create the only PPEL major in the state of Ohio. This involves ensuring that the program proceeds through approval at the university and state level and advertising the program once approved. BGSU will provide most of the needed resources, but funds are needed for the PPEL director to network with other programs across the country, especially the University of Arizona's PPEL major and its Center for the Philosophy of Freedom. We propose $1,000 towards the director's travel and promotion of the program at national PPE directors' conferences, which are critical networking opportunities.

Key Staff

Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, and Director of BGSU PPEL completed his Ph.D. in philosophy at the University of Arizona in 2011, with specializations in political philosophy, normative ethics, philosophy of religion and political economy. In the 2011-12 academic year, Vallier was a post-doctoral research associate at Brown University's Political Theory Project. Vallier has recently completed a book, Liberal Politics and Public Faith: Beyond Separation, which Routledge published last July. His work has appeared or will appear in a variety of prestigious scholarly journals, including Social Philosophy and Policy, the Canadian Journal of Philosophy, American Philosophical Quarterly, Philosophical Studies, The Australasian Journal of Philosophy, The Journal of Moral Philosophy, The European Journal of Philosophy, Public Affairs Quarterly, Utilitas, The Journal of Ethics and Social Philosophy, and Philosophy and Social Criticism.

Hi Kevin,

I hope all is going well. I have had many great conversations with alumni about the PPEL program and I am excited to share any new developments for the upcoming year. If you have a sense of the speakers that you will be bringing in again this year, I would love to be able to promote those to the individuals that I have had conversations with; as well as, any plans for the Ethics & Bioethics Debate teams.

Jasmine sent me your request to reapply for funding to the Koch Foundation for additional funding for PPEL. I am including Paula Davis on this email as she is our newest Director of Development responsible for Corporations and Foundations.

She can assist you with the completion of your letter and application. I am happy to forward the copies of the documents from last year's request to her as well, so that we may help you in your request and possibly find opportunities to increase the support from last year.

If you have any questions, please let us know.

Best,

Tina

The College was informed of the recent $8,000 grant to Philosophy from the Charles Koch Foundation for a guest speaker series and reading group. We were contacted by the Foundation as they need confirmation that there are no other tangible benefits that have been committed to the Charles Koch Foundation and a copy of the original application or proposal submitted.

Also, since the Charles Koch Foundation asks in the attached communication that any funds not expended for the purposes in which the grant is being made be returned to them, it may be beneficial to consider depositing these funds into a separate Foundation account instead of the general Philosophy Dept. Foundation account to allow the funds to be better tracked and separated from the rest of the funds in the Dept.'s general Foundation account.

If you would please confirm that there are no other tangible benefits that have been committed to the Charles Koch Foundation, as well as send me a copy of the original application or proposal submitted, that would be helpful and appreciated. Any additional information you may have regarding this grant would be helpful as well.

Thank you,

Tina,

Thanks for the quick response. We'll get an idea of who our speakers are once we know what sort of private funding we will have next year. I look forward to working with Paula on a new letter. I am enclosing our request for funding, which should be paired with the letter of support written for us last year. Composing a new letter should be relatively straightforward.

Thank you,

Hi Kevin,

I did a little research on the Koch Foundation website, but was unable to find a date for the application deadline. Do you happen to know if they have a deadline or is it an open submission? Paula is currently out of the office and since you made the submission last year, I thought you might know.

I have made a few minor edits to your request for funding where I found a couple of inconsistencies and added some language from the Koch Foundation of their mandate. However, I think that it could be strengthened further by some additional details about the Reading Group and Club, specifically around the number of participants from last year and a few details on the types of activities that took place. I am happy to incorporate that into the proposal if you could share the information.

If you have questions, please let me know.

I. Results and Activities

We here document the successes of our programs and students from the previous academic year. I do not provide all the email addresses and names we have collected, in part because we reached over five hundred people this year.

PPEL Minor

Koch Foundation funds were used to support our new PPEL minor and undergraduate club, and to provide for events for both. Since the minor program only began this year, we do not yet have students who have graduated with a PPEL minor. But we expect to graduate a number of minors next year.

Our present list of minors is:

Due to our success attracting minors, funding and interest in our events, the university has given us the go-ahead to form a PPEL major, which will bring many more students into our programming, programming is focused on offering a balanced curriculum on the morality of markets and government.

PPEL Club

The PPEL club is also new. The group has both been accepted as a BGSU club, and has a number of regular undergraduate members, including [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] What follows is a list of students who have signed up for the club's email list by attending one or more meetings:

PPEL Events

We have also run a number of successful student events.

Event (1): A Panel Entitled

Economic Inequality: What's the Problem?

Held: Wednesday, December 10th, 2014

Participants: Michael Strand (Sociology), Mary Ellen Benedict (Economics, Chair),
Michael Weber (Philosophy, Chair)

Moderator: Kevin Vallier (Philosophy)

The panel discussed the nature of economic inequality, whether it is morally problematic and what might be done to "fix" it if it is, in fact, morally problematic. Our first event involved considerable advertising and attracted over one hundred attendees.

Event (2): A Lecture Entitled*Climate Change: Ethical and Economic Challenges in Real Time*Held: January 23rd, 2015

Speaker: John Broome (White's Chair of Moral Philosophy, Emeritus, Oxford)

John Broome, a world renowned philosopher and economist, spoke on the economics and ethics of climate change. This was our most successful event; we have over two hundred and fifty in attendance.

Event (3): A Lecture Entitled*The Case Against Education*Held: April 14th, 2015

Speaker: Bryan Caplan (Economics, George Mason University)

Bryan Caplan, a well-known economist and economics blogger, spoke on the economic value of education and advanced his "signaling" model of education and the problems it identifies for the production and distribution of education in the United States. We have over eighty in attendance.

Event (4): A Lecture Entitled*Society is not a Race*Held: April 9th, 2015

Speaker: David Schmidtz (Philosophy, Kendrick Chair, University of Arizona)

David Schmidtz, a famous political philosopher and ethicist, gave his Phi Beta Kappa lecture arguing that we should not conceive of social life as a race against others, but rather as a positive sum game. We co-sponsored this event with the local Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The lecture had around forty people in attendance.

We had no similar events last year. Koch Foundation funding allowed us to bring new programming to campus, and we hope to have more of the same in the future. Altogether, we reached over five hundred members of the BGSU community: undergraduates, graduate students, staff, faculty and members of the community.

Progress towards the PPEL Major

We have also made considerable progress toward establishing a PPEL major. Vallier has been elected to the Honors College Faculty Council in order to begin soliciting honors students to major in PPEL, starting in the fall of 2016. We have also had numerous meetings with our college dean, relevant staff, and department chairs in political science and economics to work out the details. Next year will focus on getting all the paperwork to the right persons and advertising for the program.

Prof. Vallier was also able to teach two pilot courses for the PPEL major, both mentioned below, along with running three independent studies to help students advance towards being PPEL minors.

Prof. Vallier Selected as PPEL Director

This year, Prof. Vallier was selected as PPEL director and given a stipend and some course releases to run the program, both minors and majors and to support undergraduates and graduate students involved in the program. With higher enrollments, Vallier should be able to secure permanent course reductions and a half-time administrative position. He has also secured an early tenure review, which will begin next year, three years ahead of schedule.

Prof. Vallier Continues Research Agenda

In part due to aid from the Koch foundation, Prof. Vallier was able to continue his research agenda, which involved promoting his new book, Liberal Politics and Public Faith: Beyond Separation (Routledge 2014) and publishing a number of new articles in top journals in the field, including Law and Philosophy, The Canadian Journal of Philosophy, American Philosophical Quarterly, Ethical Theory and Moral Practice and Social Theory and Practice. With co-author Michael Weber, Vallier has been able to secure a contract with Oxford University Press to publish papers from a conference on non-ideal theory in political philosophy. The edited volume is entitled Political Utopias: Promise or Peril? Vallier is also working writing a new manuscript tentatively titled Must Politics Be War? Oxford UP and Cambridge UP will review part of the draft for publication at the end of the summer.

Prof. Vallier was also able to introduce a balanced look at capitalism, socialism and democracy in his course, Philosophy 2240: Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy, taught in the fall of 2014. He also taught an advanced course in PPE at the 4000 level, which acquainted students with advanced tools in game theory, public choice theory and social choice theory. The two courses served as pilot courses for the PPEL major and were both successful.

Vallier was invited to give talks at Chapman University, Georgetown University, Georgia State University, Wheaton College, the University of Birmingham (UK), the University of Turin (Italy) and Duke University. His book was the subject of an author-meets-critics panel at the Pacific Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association and an online reading group at the Public Reason blog. Vallier also lead a Cato Unbound symposium on his work in religion and politics.

Partnering with the University of Arizona's Freedom Center

Vallier received his PhD from the University of Arizona in 2011, with Gerald Gaus as his dissertation director. He also worked closely with David Schmitdtz, who runs the Freedom Center. The Freedom Center has recently secured a nearly $2 million grant from the Templeton Foundation and is already partly funded by the Koch Foundation. They are presently working on designing an electronic textbook for several courses often found in PPE courses. Prof. Vallier contributed to the textbook and will use his fall PHIL2240 course to pilot their materials.

II. Budget

The PPEL program began the year with $5000 from a private donor and $8000 from the Koch Foundation. In the attached expense report, we spent over $10,000 on promoting and organizing events, paying honoraria, and supporting the club. Without additional fundraising, we would have had to limit our activities.

III. General Feedback

I was very pleased to work with Steven Sweet, who has been supportive and resourceful throughout the last year. I look forward to working with him again in the future.

Subject: Foundation Letter for Grant

Hi Jasmine,

This is Kevin Vallier, from the philosophy department. We are in the process of preparing another grant proposal for our PPEL program and I'm curious if we cannot simply update the letter your office produced last year to send to the Koch Foundation. I'm attaching the letter. If so, I can send you the updated information.

Thank you,

Kevin Vallier

Shea,

Prof. Kevin Vallier wishes to submit a proposal for $12,000 to the Charles G. Koch Foundation to support activities of the Program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL), which is currently a minor but Prof. Vallier tells me hopes to become a major by Fall 2016 due to high interest. If funded, this grant would support expenses for the PPEL Reading Club, a speaker series, and travel funds for the program director (Vallier).

Last year Vallier's proposal was funded from Koch Foundation for $8,000, and he's in the process of submitting a report on those funds, which were accepted last year by the BGSU Foundation. About 500 people (students, faculty, staff, general public) attended these events.

I've looked into the foundation, which is a legitimate private foundation that submits a 990-PF each year and funds over 220 academic institutions around the country: in Ohio these include Ohio University, Univ. of Akron, Ohio State, Univ. of Dayton, Case Western, and others. Nationally the list includes Colgate, Dartmouth, Duke, Claremont, Johns Hopkins, Harvard, Cornell, Northwestern, and many others.

The submission period is open, but Prof. Vallier would like to go ahead soon due to summer availability. Thanks for your advice, Shea, as to how to proceed.

Tom,

I've talked with Shea (via phone) who asked me to send him a few sentences about the proposal (I'll send you the email as it's a succinct summary of last year and this year). He will be checking with higher administration before we proceed.

I've also attached a copy of Vallier's report on last year's grant, so that you can see how he's including student information (names, emails) that I believe can be handled instead with a simple summary. If the foundation insists on names and emails then I WOULD have a problem with this foundation's tactics.

I also believe that grants of this amount should go through grants accounting — I can contact him to see if a grant agreement was signed last year or anything was rec'd that indicated that if funds were unspent, they should be returned, yada yada. If so, then that would mean, IMO, that it should go through SPAR in order to keep the accountants happy.

Hi Kevin,

I did a little research on the Koch Foundation website, but was unable to find a date for the application deadline. Do you happen to know if they have a deadline or is it an open submission? Paula is currently out of the office and since you made the submission last year, I thought you might know.

I have made a few minor edits to your request for funding where I found a couple of inconsistencies and added some language from the Koch Foundation of their mandate. However, I think that it could be strengthened further by some additional details about the Reading Group and Club, specifically around the number of participants from last year and a few details on the types of activities that took place. I am happy to incorporate that into the proposal if you could share the information.

If you have questions, please let me know.

Best, Tina

Tina,

Thanks for the quick response. We'll get an idea of who our speakers are once we know what sort of private funding we will have next year. I look forward to working with Paula on a new letter. I am enclosing our request for funding, which should be paired with the letter of support written for us last year. Composing a new letter should be relatively straightforward.

Thank you,

Hi Kevin,

I hope all is going well. I have had many great conversations with alumni about the PPEL program and I am excited to share any new developments for the upcoming year. If you have a sense of the speakers that you will be bringing in again this year, I would love to be able to promote those to the individuals that I have had conversations with; as well as, any plans for the Ethics & Bioethics Debate teams.

Jasmine sent me your request to reapply for funding to the Koch Foundation for additional funding for PPEL. I am including Paula Davis on this email as she is our newest Director of Development responsible for Corporations and Foundations.

She can assist you with the completion of your letter and application. I am happy to forward the copies of the documents from last year's request to her as well, so that we may help you in your request and possibly find opportunities to increase the support from last year.

If you have any questions, please let us know.

Hello Dr. Vallier,

I've made some suggested edits to your measurement report. Most are minor; the major change is to not identify individual students and their emails, but rather assemble collective information about them. If you believe this is a requirement for the foundation, or the foundation has requested those names/emails, then we should discuss this.

Also, you cite an expense report — might you also forward us a copy of that as well, for review?
But it looks like a great first year for PPEL's activities!

Please copy me with your final report to Koch, and let me know when you've sent it; much appreciated for our files.

RE: your next proposal to Koch, I'm working on getting a couple process items clarified so that we can move forward on your next proposal submission. Given that it's a holiday week, many people are out, so I hope to be able to get back to you shortly after the start of next week for those next steps.

Have a good holiday weekend!

Koch Foundation Undergraduate Measurement Report – AY 2014-2015

I. Results and Activities

PPEL Minor

Koch Foundation funds were used to support our new PPEL minor and undergraduate club, and to provide for events for both. Since the minor program only began this academic year, we do not yet have students who have graduated with a PPEL minor. But we expect to graduate a number of minors next year.

Our present list of minors includes 14 students, and we expect that number to grow next year.

Due to our success attracting minors, funding and interest in our events, the university has given us the go-ahead to form a PPEL major, which will bring many more students into our programming, which is focused on offering a balanced curriculum on the morality of markets and government.

PPEL Club

The PPEL club is also new. The group has been accepted as a BGSU club, and has a number of regular undergraduate members. Twenty-seven students have signed up for the club's email list by attending one or more meetings.

[Dr. Vallier – perhaps here you could mention a bit about what the club did during its meetings – discussed books read and itemize titles, etc etc.]

PPEL Events

We have also run a number of successful student events.

Event (1): A Panel Entitled

Economic Inequality: What's the Problem?

Held: Wednesday, December 10th, 2014

Participants: Michael Strand (Sociology), Mary Ellen Benedict (Economics, Chair), Michael Weber (Philosophy, Chair)

Moderator: Kevin Vallier (Philosophy)

The panel discussed the nature of economic inequality, whether it is morally problematic and what might be done to "fix" it if it is, in fact, morally problematic. Our first event involved considerable advertising and attracted over one hundred attendees.

Event (4): A Lecture Entitled*Society is not a Race*Held: April 9th, 2015

Speaker: David Schmidtz (Philosophy, Kendrick Chair, University of Arizona)

David Schmidtz, a famous political philosopher and ethicist, gave his Phi Beta Kappa lecture arguing that we should not conceive of social life as a race against others, but rather as a positive sum game. We co-sponsored this event with the local Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The lecture had around forty people in attendance.

The Koch Foundation funding allowed us to bring this new programming to campus, and we hope to be able to present more such events in the future. All together, we reached over five hundred members of the BGSU and regional community: undergraduates, graduate students, staff, faculty and members of the community.

Progress towards the PPEL Major

We have also made considerable progress toward establishing a PPEL major. Vallier has been elected to the Honors College Faculty Council in order to begin soliciting honors students to major in PPEL, starting in the fall of 2016. We have also had numerous meetings with our college dean, relevant staff, and department chairs in political science and economics to work out the details. Next year will focus on getting all the paperwork to the right persons and advertising for the program.

Prof. Vallier was also able to teach two pilot courses for the PPEL major, both mentioned below, along with running three independent studies to help students advance towards being PPEL minors.

Prof. Vallier Selected as PPEL Director

This year, Prof. Vallier was selected as PPEL director and given a stipend and some course releases to run the program and to support undergraduates and graduate students involved in PPEL. With higher enrollments, Vallier should be able to secure permanent course reductions and a half-time administrative position. He has also secured an early tenure review, which will begin next year, three years ahead of schedule.

Prof. Vallier Continues Research Agenda

In part due to aid from the Koch Foundation, Prof. Vallier was able to continue his research agenda, which involved promoting his new book, Liberal Politics and Public Faith: Beyond Separation (Routledge 2014) and publishing a number of new articles in top journals in the field, including Law and Philosophy, The Canadian Journal of Philosophy, American Philosophical Quarterly, Ethical Theory and Moral Practice and Social Theory and Practice. With co-author Michael Weber, Vallier has been able to secure a contract with Oxford University Press to publish papers from a conference on non-ideal theory in political philosophy. The edited volume is entitled Political Utopias: Promise or Peril? Vallier is also working writing a new manuscript tentatively titled Must Politics Be War? Oxford UP and Cambridge UP will review part of the draft for publication at the end of the summer.

Prof. Vallier was also able to introduce a balanced look at capitalism, socialism and democracy in his course, Philosophy 2240: Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy, taught in the fall of 2014. He also taught an advanced course in PPE at the 4000 level, which acquainted students with advanced tools in game theory, public choice theory and social choice theory. The two courses served as pilot courses for the PPEL major and were both successful.

Vallier was invited to give talks at Chapman University, Georgetown University, Georgia State University, Wheaton College, the University of Birmingham (UK), the University of Turin (Italy) and Duke University. His book was the subject of an author-meets-critics panel at the Pacific Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association and an online reading group at the Public Reason blog. Vallier also lead a Cato Unbound symposium on his work in religion and politics.

Partnering with the University of Arizona's Freedom Center

Vallier received his PhD from the University of Arizona in 2011, with Gerald Gaus as his dissertation director. He also worked closely with David Schmidtz, who runs the Freedom Center. The Freedom Center has recently secured a nearly $2 million grant from the Templeton Foundation and is already partly funded by the Koch Foundation. They are presently working on designing an electronic textbook for several courses often found in PPE courses. Prof. Vallier contributed to the textbook and will use his fall PHIL2240 course to pilot their materials.

II. Budget

The PPEL program began the year with $5000 from a private donor and $8000 from the Koch Foundation. In the *attached expense report, we spent over $10,000 on promoting and organizing events, paying honoraria, and supporting the club. Without additional fundraising, we would have had to limit our activities.

*Dr. Vallier, no expense report is attached.

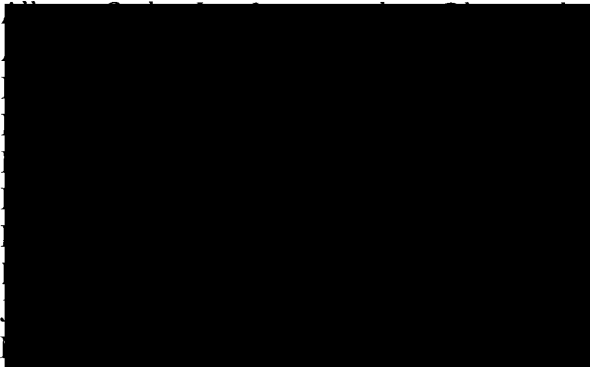

III. General Feedback

I was very pleased to work with Steven Sweet, who has been supportive and resourceful throughout the last year. I look forward to working with him again in the future.

Hi Sheri, Shea, and Mike.

I'm hoping one of you may be able to help me with this request.

The BGSU-FA received information through the AAUP that BGSU was one of approximately 60 colleges and universities that received program funding support in 2014 from the Charles Koch Foundation. They would appreciate knowing what the funding was for and the amount provided. Sean has OK'd this request.

Would you be able to tell me whether funds from the Charles Koch Foundation came to your area?

Bill – Kevin Vallier in Philosophy received a small award from the Koch Foundation to support a speaker series for the new Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law minor. The funds went through the BGSU Foundation. I understand that he intends to submit another proposal in the near future.

I'm copying Paula Davis on this email who is the new Director of Corporate and Foundation Relationships and can provide you with more details.

Hi Sheri, Shea, and Mike.

I'm hoping one of you may be able to help me with this request.

The BGSU-FA received information through the AAUP that BGSU was one of approximately 60 colleges and universities that received program funding support in 2014 from the Charles Koch Foundation. They would appreciate knowing what the funding was for and the amount provided. Sean has OK'd this request.

Would you be able to tell me whether funds from the Charles Koch Foundation came to your area?

Thanks,

Bill

Hi Kevin,

We're in the process of trying to align our BGSU Foundation practices with university accounting — and to that end, I was wondering if you could please scan/forward to me any correspondence/agreement that you might have rec'd from Koch for last year's $8,000 award that indicated what you should include in a report, and when it would be due? You alluded earlier to the fact that Koch wanted the report the first week of July.

All I see in our files was a letter to Shea McGrew (copied to you/Shannon Spencer) that needed to be signed and returned.

ALSO, if you could please forward to me a copy of the report you ultimately submitted to Koch, I'd appreciate it for our files.

THANKS!

Hi Tina and Kevin,

Sorry for the slight delay — I've included a few edits on the Koch proposal for your consideration. Also, the letterhead that it's on has an error — the line underneath Bowling Green State University has Department of Philosophy misspelled — you might want to have that changed prior to submission.

Kevin, if you agree with the edits, please route the final proposal to your department chair and the dean for approval, so that we can proceed with online submission (did you do that yourself last year, or would you like me to submit?).

I imagine if you forward to me any emails of approval of the proposal from the chair/dean, that that would suffice, since it's not a sponsored program (we still need to finalize certain processes here on this end, as you can see!).

Once I have those approvals, then I'll include Shea McGrew's letter for submission.

Let me know if you have any questions or concerns —

Hello Shea and Mike,

I thought I would just check in one more time before submitting Dr. Kevin Vallier's proposal to the Charles Koch Foundation for $12,000 to support the PPEL program for a second year.

Because we do not yet have a single sign-off form for our joint use, I don't have those signatures. However, I do have an email from the philosophy chair (Michael Weber) and in the absence of Ray Craig for the rest of the month, I have an email from Tina Shunk, Director of Development for Arts and Sciences, who states:

Ray is aware of this proposal going forward and doesn't have any issue with it since the requirements do not present any political bias or interfere with the operating or academic integrity of the program.

I've attached a copy of the proposal and a suggested cover letter I drafted from Shea.

If you both approve, please reply all, and Joy, if you wouldn't mind generating a copy of the letter for Shea on BGSU Foundation letterhead, and have him sign it, I'd be grateful.

If there are issues, please let me know as well, and thank you!

Koch Foundation Undergraduate Measurement Report – AY 2014-2015
Bowling Green State University
Program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL)
June 22nd, 2015
Grant Award: $8000
Remaining Funds: $0

I. Results and Activities

We here document the successes of our programs and students from the previous academic year. I do not provide all the email addresses and names we have collected, in part because we reached over five hundred people this year.

PPEL Minor

Koch Foundation funds were used to support our new PPEL minor and undergraduate club, and to provide for events for both. Since the minor program only began this academic year, we do not yet have students who have graduated with a PPEL minor. But we expect to graduate a number of minors next year.

Our present list of minors includes 14 students, listed below, and we expect that number to grow next year. Our present minors:

Due to our success attracting minors, funding and interest in our events, the university has given us the go-ahead to form a PPEL major, which will bring many more students into our programming, which is focused on offering a balanced curriculum on the morality of markets and government.

PPEL Club

The PPEL club is also new. The group has been accepted as a BGSU club, and has a number of regular undergraduate members, including [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] What follows is a list of twenty-seven students who have signed up for the club's email list by attending one or more meetings:

Club meetings focus on discussion of current political events and planning for on-campus events, along with a reading group on Hayek's The Road to Serfdom.

PPEL Events

We have also run a number of successful student events.

Event (1): A Panel Entitled
Economic Inequality: What's the Problem?
Held: Wednesday, December 10th, 2014

Participants: Michael Strand (Sociology), Mary Ellen Benedict (Economics, Chair),
Michael Weber (Philosophy, Chair)
Moderator: Kevin Vallier (Philosophy)

The panel discussed the nature of economic inequality, whether it is morally problematic and what might be done to “fix” it if it is, in fact, morally problematic. Our first event involved considerable advertising and attracted over one hundred attendees.

Event (2): A Lecture Entitled

Climate Change: Ethical and Economic Challenges in Real Time

Held: January 23rd, 2015

Speaker: John Broome (White’s Chair of Moral Philosophy, Emeritus, Oxford)

John Broome, a world renowned philosopher and economist, spoke on the economics and ethics of climate change. This was our most successful event; over two hundred and fifty attended.

Event (3): A Lecture Entitled

The Case Against Education

Held: April 14th, 2015

Speaker: Bryan Caplan (Economics, George Mason University)

Bryan Caplan, a well-known economist and economics blogger, spoke on the economic value of education and advanced his “signaling” model of education and the problems it identifies for the production and distribution of education in the United States. We had over eighty in attendance.

Event (4): A Lecture Entitled

Society is not a Race

Held: April 9th, 2015

Speaker: David Schmidtz (Philosophy, Kendrick Chair, University of Arizona)

David Schmidtz, a famous political philosopher and ethicist, gave his Phi Beta Kappa lecture arguing that we should not conceive of social life as a race against others, but rather as a positive sum game. We co-sponsored this event with the local Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The lecture had around forty people in attendance.

The Koch Foundation funding allowed us to bring this new programming to campus, and we hope to be able to present more events like them in the future. All together, we reached over five hundred members of the BGSU and regional community: undergraduates, graduate students, staff, faculty and members of the community.

Progress towards the PPEL Major

We have also made considerable progress toward establishing a PPEL major. Vallier has been elected to the Honors College Faculty Council in order to begin soliciting honors students to major in PPEL, starting in the fall of 2016. We have also had numerous meetings with our college dean, relevant staff, and department chairs in political science and economics to work out the details. Next year will focus on getting all the paperwork to the right persons and advertising for the program.

Prof. Vallier was also able to teach two pilot courses for the PPEL major, both mentioned below, along with running three independent studies to help students advance towards being PPEL minors.

Prof. Vallier Selected as PPEL Director

This year, Prof. Vallier was selected as PPEL director and given a stipend and some course releases to run the program and to support undergraduates and graduate students involved in PPEL. With higher enrollments, Vallier should be able to secure permanent course reductions and a half-time administrative position. He has also secured an early tenure review, which will begin next year, three years ahead of schedule.

Prof. Vallier Continues Research Agenda

In part due to aid from the Koch Foundation, Prof. Vallier was able to continue his research agenda, which involved promoting his new book, Liberal Politics and Public Faith: Beyond Separation (Routledge 2014) and publishing a number of new articles in top journals in the field, including Law and Philosophy, The Canadian Journal of Philosophy, American Philosophical Quarterly, Ethical Theory and Moral Practice and Social Theory and Practice. With co-author Michael Weber, Vallier has been able to secure a contract with Oxford University Press to publish papers from a conference on non-ideal theory in political philosophy. The edited volume is entitled Political Utopias: Promise or Peril? Vallier is also working writing a new manuscript tentatively titled Must Politics Be War? Oxford UP and Cambridge UP will review part of the draft for publication at the end of the summer.

Prof. Vallier was also able to introduce a balanced look at capitalism, socialism and democracy in his course, Philosophy 2240: Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy, taught in the fall of 2014. He also taught an advanced course in PPE at the 4000 level, which acquainted students with advanced tools in game theory, public choice theory and social choice theory. The two courses served as pilot courses for the PPEL major and were both successful.

Vallier was invited to give talks at Chapman University, Georgetown University, Georgia State University, Wheaton College, the University of Birmingham (UK), the University of Turin (Italy) and Duke University. His book was the subject of an author-meets-critics panel at the Pacific Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association and an online reading group at the Public Reason blog. Vallier also lead a Cato Unbound symposium on his work in religion and politics.

Partnering with the University of Arizona's Freedom Center

Vallier received his PhD from the University of Arizona in 2011, with Gerald Gaus as his dissertation director. He also worked closely with David Schmitz, who runs the Freedom Center. The Freedom Center has recently secured a nearly $2 million grant from the Templeton Foundation and is already partly funded by the Koch Foundation. They are presently working on designing an electronic textbook for several courses often found in PPE courses. Prof. Vallier contributed to the textbook and will use his fall PHIL2240 course to pilot their materials.

II. Budget

The PPEL program began the year with $5000 from a private donor and $8000 from the Koch Foundation. In the attached expense report, we spent over $10,000 on promoting and organizing events, paying honoraria, and supporting the club. Without additional fundraising, we would have had to limit our activities.

III. General Feedback

I was very pleased to work with Steven Sweet, who has been supportive and resourceful throughout the last year. I look forward to working with him again in the future.

Paula,

The measurement report is attached. I deleted the email addresses but shared the names on the condition that I would offer the students the chance to sign up for the Foundation's email list. The Koch representative I work with stresses the need to demonstrate that the grant money is reaching real people. They typically want email addresses, so we compromised.

Hi Kevin,

We're in the process of trying to align our BGSU Foundation practices with university accounting — and to that end, I was wondering if you could please scan/forward to me any correspondence/agreement that you might have rec'd from Koch for last year's $8,000 award that indicated what you should include in a report, and when it would be due? You alluded earlier to the fact that Koch wanted the report the first week of July.

All I see in our files was a letter to Shea McGrew (copied to you/Shannon Spencer) that needed to be signed and returned.

ALSO, if you could please forward to me a copy of the report you ultimately submitted to Koch, I'd appreciate it for our files.

THANKS!

As I've requested in an earlier email in this thread, please send me the following:

2. A copy of the "attached expense report" (which is not included with what you've sent me)
3. any correspondence/agreement that you have from Koch for last year's award that SPECIFICALLY OUTLINES what you should include in a report, and when it would be due (I have a copy of the letter agreement, and it does not specify any reports, let alone what should be included in them, including emails)

Our office is currently in the process of documenting policies and procedures as to who does what re: submissions, reports, etc., so I appreciate your patience as we work this out; in future I hope the process will be clearer for all parties involved.

Meanwhile, however, I'm afraid I cannot proceed with your current submission to the Koch Foundation until I receive this information. Thanks.

Thanks, Kevin. And it's wonderful that you've developed a good relationship with the program officer — that's what good grants-getting is all about, so kudos to you! I'll appreciate your keeping me in the loop with their feedback. Shea's letter should be ready in the very near future and then I'll go ahead and handle the online submission for you. On our end, we're just trying to capture information from everyone so that there's a central repository for that info that will exist once we are no longer in the picture. So I appreciate your patience with that, understanding that our office is here to support you and not act as an impediment.

I'll keep you posted on the submission. With best wishes,

Paula,

Yes, that's the report date, not the proposal. But, my relationship with the Koch Foundation, via my contact, is not as formalized as I think you're expecting. They have an open submission window, such that while they give deadlines, that is largely for people who fall out of touch and won't otherwise stay up to speed. In contrast, I call my contact and speak with him fairly regularly. We talk over ideas about what to propose, what is working and what isn't throughout the year. He also looks at proposal and report drafts, makes suggestions and edits, and sends them back to me. So while I have not submitted a final proposal, he knows full well what I'm requesting. The final documents follow all these discussions.

I recognize that you're trying to formalize matters on your end, but I thought it'd be worth explaining in a bit more detail how things have worked (and worked well, so far) on my end.

Thank you,
Kevin

Charles G. Koch Foundation
Bowling Green State University
Department of Philosophy, College of Arts and Sciences

On behalf of the Department of Philosophy and the Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) Program at Bowling Green State University, we respectfully request $12,000 to support our new PPEL minor and PPEL Club for a second year. Such a grant would continue to enhance our new academic program, which promises undergraduates the opportunity not merely to integrate political philosophy, political science and political economy, but also to understand the systematic justification for the institutions characteristic of a free society, both empirical and normative. It will also help us to advance our proposed PPEL major.

Background and Mission

Founded in 1910, Bowling Green State University provides a wide range of students, particularly in Northwest Ohio, with preparation for lifelong career growth, lives of engaged citizenship and leadership in a global society, in particular with strong commitments to first-year programs that lead to success. Within our transformative learning community, we build a welcoming, safe and diverse environment where the creative ideas and achievements of all can benefit others throughout Ohio, the nation and the world.

The PPEL Minor and PPEL Club

BGSU has recently created a new academic minor in the area of philosophy, politics, economics and law. After a successful first year, a key advantage the PPEL program offers students is the opportunity to ask philosophical questions about the justification of social institutions combined with information about how institutions actually function through critical inquiry and debate amongst their peers and their faculty. One integral part of any vibrant PPEL program is an undergraduate PPEL club, led primarily by undergraduates and based around reading groups and speaker series. Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, is the Director of the PPEL program and advises the new PPEL club. The aim of the club is to expand learning about PPEL topics outside of the classroom and into the social lives of students as they explore the characteristics and nature of liberty and the well being of free societies. Students have the opportunity to become acquainted with ideas and research that our faculty cannot provide and to interact with scholars across the country and the world. As they develop knowledge and skills, we expect our PPEL minors to become BGSU's best students and to quickly enter promising post-graduate careers.

The PPEL Major

Given the successes of our PPEL minor and the desire of the university administration to promote new programming for BGSU undergraduates, we have been encouraged to create a PPEL major, which will involve considerably more resources and reach many more students. Thanks to last year's grant from the Koch Foundation, we have had a strong first year. This coming year is just as critical, as we will be moving towards a major to be offered in the fall of 2016.

Program

Following the Charles G. Koch Foundation's interests, the Philosophy Department requests support for the following activities for the fall 2015/spring 2016 academic year:

1. PPEL Reading Group and Club

In order to expand this still-new undergraduate academic club, we request $1,000 for books, food and advertising. Last year we attracted 27 students to the club's meetings. This year we will also invite graduate students and faculty to the group as well, and expect to exceed last year's numbers in regular attendance.

2. Guest Lecture Series

The PPEL Club is the only academic club of its kind at BGSU, as it has both an academic and popular audience and serves both PPEL minors and others who attend. Our guest lectures will be prominently advertised and open to the public in order to reach the broadest audience. The 2014-15 events attracted over 500 people, demonstrating the interest generated by the topics, which we hope to expand for 2015-16. Our goal is to run several high profile speaking events with 125-200 people at each lecture. A budget of $10,000 would cover travel, stipends and accommodations for two to five events with prominent speakers.

3. Promoting the PPEL Major

Progressing and promoting the PPEL program to status as a major will create the only PPEL major in the state of Ohio. This involves ensuring that the program proceeds through approval at the university and state level and advertising the program once approved. BGSU will provide most of the needed resources, but funds are needed for the PPEL director to network with other programs across the country, especially the University of Arizona's PPEL major and its Center for the Philosophy of Freedom. We propose $1,000 towards the director's travel and promotion of the program at national PPE directors' conferences, which are critical networking opportunities.

Key Staff

Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, and Director of BGSU PPEL completed his Ph.D. in philosophy at the University of Arizona in 2011, with specializations in political philosophy, normative ethics, philosophy of religion and political economy. In the 2011-12 academic year, Vallier was a post-doctoral research associate at Brown University's Political Theory Project. Vallier has recently completed a book, Liberal Politics and Public Faith: Beyond Separation, which Routledge published last July. His work has appeared or will appear in a variety of prestigious scholarly journals, including Social Philosophy and Policy, the Canadian Journal of Philosophy, American Philosophical Quarterly, Philosophical Studies, The Australasian Journal of Philosophy, The Journal of Moral Philosophy, The European Journal of Philosophy, Public Affairs Quarterly, Utilitas, The Journal of Ethics and Social Philosophy, and Philosophy and Social Criticism.

Conclusion

Bowling Green State University PPEL is grateful to have our proposal reviewed by the Charles G. Koch Foundation. We hope to create a productive partnership in the future in order to expand academic opportunities and career development for our students. If you have any questions, please contact Kevin Vallier via the information below. Thank you for your consideration.

Charles G. Koch Foundation
Bowling Green State University

On behalf of the Department of Philosophy and the Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law Program at Bowling Green State University, we respectfully request a grant in the amount of $10,000 for the 2014-2015 academic year to support our new PPEL minor and PPEL Club. Should we receive a grant, we will be in a much better position to launch our new academic program, which promises to offer undergraduates the opportunity not merely to integrate political philosophy, political science and political economy, but to understand the systematic justification for the institutions characteristic of a free society, both empirical and normative.

Background and Mission

Founded in 1910, Bowling Green State University provides a wide range of students, particularly in Northwest Ohio, with preparation for lifelong career growth, lives of engaged citizenship and leadership in a global society, in particular with strong commitments to first-year programs that lead to success. Within our transformative learning community, we build a welcoming, safe and diverse environment where the creative ideas and achievements of all can benefit others throughout Ohio, the nation and the world.

The PPEL Minor and PPEL Club

BGSU has recently created a new academic minor in the area of philosophy, politics, economics and law. This is our attempt to offer PPEL courses to BGSU students, following the trend of the creation and expansion of PPEL programs across the country. The advantage of the PPEL program is that it provides students with the opportunity to ask philosophical questions about the justification of social institutions combined with information about how institutions actually function. One critical part of any vibrant PPEL program is an undergraduate PPEL club, led primarily by undergraduates and based around reading groups and speaker series. Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, is the Director of the PPEL program and will supervise the PPEL club as it develops. The aim of the club is to expand learning about PPEL topics outside of the classroom and into the social lives of students. Students will have the opportunity to become acquainted with ideas and research that our faculty cannot provide and to interact with scholars across the country and the world. As they develop knowledge and skills, we expect our PPEL minors to become BGSU's best students and to quickly enter promising post-graduate careers.

Program

Following the Charles G. Koch Foundation's interests, the Philosophy Department requests support for the following activities for the fall 2014/spring 2015 academic year:

1. PPEL Reading Group

In order to quickly create a new undergraduate academic, we will need to pay for books, food and advertising. We hope to attract twenty members during our first year. We will also invite graduate students and faculty in the area to the group as well. We propose a $2000 budget for our first year.

2. Guest Lecturers

The PPEL Club will be the only academic club of its kind at BGSU, as it has both an academic and popular audience, as it will serve both PPEL minors and others who attend. But our guest lectures will be prominently publicized and invite far more people. We hope to generate at least 40 attendees per lecture. We propose four guest lecturers throughout the year, two in the fall and two in the spring, with a budget of $2000 per lecturer to be used for travel, stipend and accommodations.

Key Staff

Kevin Vallier, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, and Director of BGSU PPEL completed his Ph.D. in philosophy at the University of Arizona in 2011, with specializations in political philosophy, normative ethics, philosophy of religion and political economy. In the 2011-12 academic year, Vallier was a post-doctoral research associate at Brown University's Political Theory Project. We hope to create a productive partnership in the future in order to expand academic opportunities and career development for our students. On behalf of the Department of Philosophy and the Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) Program at Bowling Green State University, we respectfully request $12,000 to support our new PPEL minor and PPEL Club for a second year. UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

FOUNDATION

OVERVIEW

» It is our objective to support students who are interested in the principles of free enterprise and classical liberalism so that they may apply these concepts to their future endeavors. We work with professors at the undergraduate and master's level who are actively committed to teaching the ideas of a free society. We augment their work inside and outside the classroom to:

- Enhance the educational opportunities available to students
- Encourage interested students to pursue related continuing education and/or career opportunities

» The following are examples of activities that have been successfully implemented at undergraduate institutions. This list is only a sample of the projects we have funded, and we encourage faculty to think creatively and propose their own ideas as well.

Research fellowships: Students either assist with faculty research or work on their own projects in order to develop skills as researchers, writers, public speakers, etc. Projects range from opinion editorials to term papers to co-authored peer review journal articles.

Seminars/colloquia: Faculty mentors lead students in reading discussions or examinations of specialized topics. This often takes the form of a group that meets weekly or biweekly, sometimes for credit and sometimes informally. Some groups use the semester to go through one book chapter-by-chapter, and some groups have a faster pace of one book per month or even one book per week.

Courses: Faculty develop and implement courses not currently offered by the university in order to create new educational opportunities for students. Courses may be on a variety of topics, including but not limited to economic and political institutions, theory of capitalism, American founding principles, major works in classical liberal thought, etc.

Guest lectures: Leading scholars interact directly with students in the classroom, lecture hall, or less formal settings. A lecture series often includes an average of 1-3 guest speakers per semester. Speakers often lecture in classes during the day and/or give a public lecture to the university community. We like to encourage guest speakers to spend additional time with interested students. Marketing through relevant student groups, in classes, and through the university's activity office (if appropriate) is recommended.

»» OUTSIDE OPPORTUNITIES

After students participate in one or more of the activities above, we encourage faculty to assist interested students to take the next step in their academic or professional careers. We can provide support to help students participate in programs such as the ones below, which are crucial next steps in the student's education and development:

- »» Graduate study on the ideas of a free society within the disciplines of economics, history, law, philosophy, and political science, etc.
- »» Non-profit employment or internships at organizations such as the American Enterprise Institute, Americans for Prosperity Foundation, Cato Institute, State Policy Network groups, Foundation for Economic Education, Foundation for Teaching Economics, Institute for Humane Studies, and the Charles Koch Institute, etc.
- »» Educational programs or seminars offered by the Institute for Humane Studies, the Property and Environment Research Center, and the Foundation for Economic Education, etc.
- »» Participation at academic conferences such as the Association of Private Enterprise Education and the Southern Economic Association, etc.

»» REQUIREMENTS FOR SUBMITTING GRANT REQUESTS/PROPOSALS

The Charles Koch Foundation (Foundation) is prohibited from making grants to individuals. However, under certain circumstances, the Foundation may make grants to educational institutions for use by individuals (e.g., professors and students) who are under the direction and supervision of the educational institution and who are selected by the institution.

In order for a grant request to be considered for funding, all grant requests/proposals must be (a) made at the request of the university and submitted on university letterhead via e-mail or fax and (b) signed by the department chair or a representative from the university who does not expect to receive any part of the grant funds or supervises the project made possible by the grant.

The attached grant request/proposal template must be used when submitting a grant request/proposal. Only requests fulfilling these requirements and accompanied by the appropriate supporting information will be considered for funding. The Foundation may request clarification upon review.

»» The following documents must accompany the above-mentioned proposal letter:

1. A document, separate from the proposal, that provides a brief description of the activities for which funding is being requested. This may include information on the number of speakers to participate in a speaker series or the research topics that student fellows would focus on. Please feel free to include any additional information that will help us better understand the nature of your request and its justification.
2. A copy of an IRS non-profit determination letter confirming that the college, university, or supporting organization requesting the funding (the "Grantee Organization") is an Internal Revenue Code ("Code") section 501(c)(3) organization or an organization described under Code section 511(a)(2)(B) (i.e., a state college or university).
3. The name and contact information of the administrator or other individual at the university, if any, to whom it would be beneficial to send the formal letter and payment. We can also send the formal letter and payment directly to the individual who submitted the proposal, if he or she is not receiving direct compensation from the grant.

Overhead Policy

Please be advised that no part of the proposed grant payment, if made by the Foundation, can be used for administrative or other overhead and that no offset or deduction can be made for direct or indirect costs including any tax levy. If your administrative officials require a formal notification of this policy, we will provide such a document upon request.

Acceptable Use Disclosure

Please note that by submitting a grant request/proposal, you agree that (i) all funding awarded shall be expended exclusively for educational, scientific, literary or other charitable purposes described in Code section 170(c)(2)(B) and (ii) no part of the grant can be used to influence legislation, to influence the outcome of any election, for a political campaign or intervention, or to carry on any voter registration drive.

Your Koch proposal was submitted this afternoon, along with Shea's cover letter.

Those documents are attached (one file with both proposal and letter).

Good luck!

Paula
